An Essay on Woman,

After man came woman. And she has m after him ever since. She is a person of noble extraction, eing made of a man's rib. I don't snow why Adam wanted to feel away his ribs o that way, but I suppose he was not accountable for all he did.

It costs more to keep a woman than three dogs and a shotgun. But she pays you back with interest by giving you a nouse full of children to keep you awake ill night and sme ir molasses candy over your Sunday coat.

Woman is the superior being in Mashusetts. There are about sixty thousand more of her sex than males in the state. This accounts for the terrified, nunted down expression of the single men who emigrate from the East. Woman was not created perfect. She has her faults—such as false hair, and talse complexion, and so on. But she is a great deal better than her neighbors,

E.ve was a woman. She must have been a model wife, for it cost Asham nothing to keep her in slothing. Still I don't think they were of other ladies by wearing her new win-ter bonnet to church. Neither could sho oang over the back fence and gossip with her near neighbor. All these blessed
